RE: ABCFP recognition of Standard 3 – Professionalism and Ethics

The Association of BC Forest Professionals (ABCFP) has offered workshops and training modules to its members in support of the Association's code of ethics for many years. In 2016, we created a series of online modules designed to impart professionalism and ethics into the articling process for new members. These modules must be completed over a minimum two-year period and address all of the demonstrable competency requirements within Standard 3 of the 2017 Forest Professional Regulators of Canada (FPRC) certification standards.

The members of the FPRC (via the Central Assessment Authority) have accepted that the ABCFP workshops and modules are sufficient to meet Standard 3 (2017). Further, the ABCFP's Credentials Committee also accepts that these standards are met in this manner.

If you are assessing an RPF candidate applying for registration in BC, there is no need to review their credentials in order to satisfy Standard 3.
